STEAD TO ENCOURAGE

ORGANISTS IN AMERICA.

Paris, Oct. 1.—(Special cablegram to the Globe Democrat)—Franklin L. Stead, director of the college of music of the Woman's college of Jacksonville, has left Paris after spending the summer here studying the organ with Charles Widor and Gustin Wright. It is Mr. Stead's intention to encourage the development of organ playing in the United States, as he is of the opinion that the American musical temperament is particularly suited to expression upon the organ and that it is a great pity more attention is not paid to this instrument in the United States. M. Guilman said to Mr. Stead that he believes the greatest organists of the world would come from America if attention was given to developing this means of musical exposition.

A BAD COMPLAINT.

Messrs. Phelps & Osborne have a singular complaint to make and one that seems well high incredible. In the rear part of their store they have fixed up a nice, commodious resting room for ladies, where their guests and customers may wash their hands and faces, comb their hair and rest until ready to go. One would suppose such great courtesy would be appreciated and not abused, but the gentlemen say the towels and soap they provide are stolen right along. Only Tuesday morning they hung on the roller a large, clean towel and before noon some one had carried it away, and it was no uncommon occurrence. Such conduct seems almost incredible; stealing from a kindly host who provides free entertainment. The Journal is slow to think that any ladies in this vicinity would do such a thing and is inclined to the opinion that the light fingered individuals must come a long distance to Jacksonville and the Journal also hopes there will be no further cause for complaint on the part of Messrs. Phelps & Osborne.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH

REMEDY.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all leading druggists.

If troubled with a weak digestion try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will do you good. For sale by all leading druggists.

There does not seem to be water enough for a Democratic "tidal wave."

"Incidental protection" which Mr. Davis urges means incidental employment and workmen know it.

Congressman Wade, of Iowa, want the tariff on pearl buttons retained. The tariff is always a local issue with the Democrats.

One trouble with the Democratic fighters is that every time they seize a weapon of offense it turns out to be a boomerang.

It seems hardly fair to blame Candidate Davis for not giving more to the campaign fund. Few men would give $50,000 for nothing but a licking.

The Democratic papers that are now paying tributes to Major McKinley were abusing him four years ago just as viciously as they are now assailing President Roosevelt.

Some enterprising Democratic editor in the east should print a list of Democratic candidates for the house in the states west of the Mississippi who are conducting a sound money campaign.

Canada has fixed Nov. 17 as 'Thanksgiving' day. It would be a kindly act toward the Democrats if President Roosevelt would fix our Thanksgiving day for some date prior to Nov. 8.

It is difficult to convince even Democrats that Judge Parker knows better what our policy should be toward the Filipinos than does Secretary Taft.

The Democrats never take it straight, they mix their finances, their tariff, and everything else and that accounts for that terrible headache they suffer the morning after the returns are counted.

Statisticians now insist that insanity is on the increase. This may be a direct contradiction of recent Democratic claims.

Senator Gorman proposes to adopt new plans in the Democratic campaign management. He will probably even use force, if necessary, to have Uncle Henry Davis' bank account reduced.

"As the date for voting draws nearer it becomes more and more important to use every proper effort to elect the candidates on the Republican county ticket. Good men have been placed in nomination and they should be chosen if the welfare of the taxpayers and people in general is taken into consideration. We need a Republican commissioner, a surveyor, a circuit clerk, a coroner, a state's attorney, and if the people are wise they will select them at the polls. Election day is but a few weeks off and it behooves every voter to see to it that he and his neighbors are kept awake to the importance of the issues involved. It is important to elect the Republican candidates from president down to the humblest on the ticket.

The Courier last night had a laudatory article to show that Deneen was a weak candidate and getting weaker all the time, and strongly advocating the election of Mr. Deneen's opponent on the Democratic ticket. Possibly the Democratic leaders get a little comfort out of such stuff, but bless their souls, Deneen is the only man running. A considerable share of the people of Illinois don't even know the name of the Democratic candidate. His nomination was secured by the most shameful overriding of the rights of the majority and so disgusted were all decent people that they hastened to forget the results of the Democratic state convention as soon as possible. Nothing is offered against the private character of the Democratic candidate; like the sage of Esopus, he is simply the representative of a ring who would wield the reins of power, while he sat meekly by and registered their will were he elected, which will not be the case. A striking example of that was seen in the famous gold telegram to the St. Louis convention. The managers of the Democratic state convention were duly styled highwaymen and train robbers by Mr. Bryan and the wielders of power in the national convention were regarded by him as little better. Of course the Democratic press must put on a bold front and pretend to be fighting for the state of Illinois, which they have about as much hope of capturing as they have of flying to the moon. They will know that the battle ground is in a different field—New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Indiana and West Virginia being the states where the Democratic trust money will be poured out like water. It will be a good thing for the fellows who wait around for the spoils, but the people will have something to say about the matter and that say will be in favor of the Republican ticket.

In the death of Postmaster General Payne of Wisconsin the country loses one of its able and fearless servants. Called to one of the most important positions in the land, he undertook the work of the place with characteristic zeal and ability and regardless of friend or foe, proceeded to execute the law and seek out for the purpose of punishment men who were unfaithful to their trusts. He will long be remembered as an incorruptible, able, fearless man, determined to do his duty and have no scruples which would prevent him from carrying out in letter and spirit the obligations which he took upon himself when the oath of office was administered to him.

Still the people wonder why the Democracy will support a man like Parker, when Pratt's Indian, according to the Democratic organ, would make as good a president. Certainly the Democracy is very easy to please and from present appearances a large part of it will not swallow the morsel prepared for it by the convention at St. Louis. Grover Cleveland has been styled the Benedict Arnold of the party and now that he is thoroughly in power, dictating the policy of the organization and naming its candidates, the spectacle is anything but inspiring to the member of the party who has advocated its principles in the past. The supporter of free silver, its favorite theory, was stifled in the convention and nothing was said on it in the platform, but later by an ingenious arrangement the gold standard was thrust down the throats of the people who will take the dose. Verily, the Democratic party is in sore straits to nominate a man who would be no better than Pratt's Indian for president and whose nomination would be a betrayal of the party into the hands of its foes, and that is what has been done.

CONDENSED STORIES.

What Congressman Bourke Cockran's Would Be Client Needed.

Congressman Bourke Cockran was seated in his law office one day recently when one of the clerks announced a visitor, says the New York Herald. The orator was very busy, but the man refused to tell his business to a clerk, insisting that it was a personal matter and he must see Mr. Cockran himself.

"Well, show him in," said the lawyer finally in disgust.

"I want to get some legal advice," Mr. Cockran, said the visitor, "and

"YOU WANT TO SEE A NERVE SPECIALIST?" I came to you because I am a poor man and cannot afford to pay a real lawyer."

"What do you mean?" thundered the representative indignantly.

"Well, I mean that as a politician you will not be hard on one of your constituents. Besides, I have another claim on you. My aunt does washing for one of your cousins."

"My dear sir," said the lawyer in his most withering tone as he ushered the visitor out, "you don't want to see a lawyer. You want to see a nerve specialist."

Howells Not an Authority.

Mr. Hamilton Mable tells of a genial dispute with reference to the words "lunch" and "luncheon" that once arose between Mr. and Mrs. William Dean Howells.

The novelist contended that "lunch" was proper, while his wife favored "luncheon." Finally the dictionary was consulted. "Well, I was right," chuckled Mr. Howells when he had found the reference, and he read aloud an extract quoted as showing the correct usage:

"We lunched fairly upon little dishes of rose leaves, delicately prepared."

"From what author is the extract taken?" queried Mrs. Howells.

"William Dean Howells," was the smiling reply.

"Tut, tut!" exclaimed the wife. "He's no authority!"—New York Herald.

What the Senator Thought.

"We southern men," said Joe Blackburn, "often look at a pretty woman much as we would at a picture—admiringly, courteously, but never impertinently. It was in this way that I not long ago rested my eyes upon a handsome young woman who was walking up and down the platform at the station at Washington waiting for her train."

"Soon she turned and saw me."

"Rubber!" she exclaimed and shrugged her shoulders, with a frown.

"I took off my hat."

"Madam!" said I, "I beg a thousand pardons. I took the liberty of admiring you because I thought you were the real thing!"—New York Times.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT.

The Passavant and Our Saviors Hospitals Each Get $50 in Gold from Frank's Dry Goods Store.

Every reader of the Journal is thoroughly familiar with this $100 cash offer. The box was locked before a committee and several thousand keys were given out. It was stipulated on each tag which was attached to the keys that should the right key be lost or destroyed, or not be brought in, the money would be donated to the above worthy cause as an assurance of honesty in the offering. To day there are exactly 363 keys still out and missing. Three months have been spent in trying to locate the right key, it has been constantly advertised, and unfortunately to no avail.

Tuesday morning the box was broken open and the money divided and given to the proper hospital authorities, whose receipts appear below, carrying out every part as agreed. Both institutions can use such a gift, coming as it does, and is most commendable by the general public.

"Passavant Memorial Hospital, Jacksonville, Ill., Oct. 4, 1904.

MATRIMONIAL

LUBY-M'NEFF.

Nebraska State Register: One of the most beautiful weddings we have ever witnessed was solemnized at the Catholic church in Giltner, Neb., Sept. 20, 1904, at 10:30, when Cornelia Luby and Agnes McNeff were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. Father Dunphy, of Sutton, Neb., assisted by Rev. Father Fitzgerald, of Grafton. They were attended by John McNeff as best man and Maud Gothridge as bridesmaid. The bride was handsomely gowned in a dress of white silk mousseline, trimmed with satin ribbon and lace, and wearing a veil of chiffon, with orange blossoms.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the home of the bride's mother, where a sumptuous dinner awaited them. The presents were numerous, beautiful and useful.

The young people begin their married life with a bright future before them and the Register, with its correspondent, joins in wishing them years of happiness and prosperity. Jay Wemple read the constitution, which was received with hearty approval. The members now number nearly a hundred and the list is still growing. Officers chosen were as follows:

HOME MARKETS.

Unseasonable weather has caused dullness in trade. Crop prospects are moderately good and prices fair. Of the Chicago live stock market Oliver S. Green, with Shannon Bros. & Co., U. S. yards, Chicago, reports for Monday, Oct. 3: Cattle, 25,000; hogs, 24,000; sheep, 45,000. About 7,500 cattle were westerns. The supply of choice to prime cattle was small and the very best were strong to 10c higher. The best here sold at $6.40, but were not as fancy as the top last week. The bulk of the other cattle ruled dull and many sold at slow last week's prices. Good butcher stock sold strong, common and cullers dull. The late mar-

OUR NEIGHBORS

ALEXANDER

The entire community has again been saddened by the death of a most respected citizen, a kind and loving father and husband—Cornelius Harrison, the gentleman who had married the grain elevator here belonging to Mr. Greenleaf. He was a man of good qualities, honest in his dealings with his fellowmen, good to the poor. He belonged to the Methodist church here and was always a good and faithful church worker. He will be greatly missed by all.

Rev. Mr. French, of Antioch, has been holding a protracted meeting at Bora for the past three weeks. He has been very successful in the meetings there. There will be meetings there every other Sunday afternoon. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius G. Strawn entertained a number of their friends in honor of the christening of their baby, Mary Elizabeth Strawn. May the child live to be a blessing and all that is lovely and good. May she be a dutiful daughter to her parents who love her so devotedly. She received many handsome and useful presents.

Miss Snyder and Cookings attended the St. Louis fair last week.

J. B. Corrington bought forty cattle last week.

Clint Corrington and Leavitt Clarke visited their country home Friday and Saturday.

Ed Hirschman is home visiting his parents. He is a very estimable and one of the most promising young men of the county.

CHAPIN RURAL

The little son born to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bunch Sept. 24 died Thursday, the 29th, and was buried the next day in the Concord cemetery after a service at the home conducted by Elder L. G. Huff, of Chapin.

Mr. and Mrs. Bunch have the sincere sympathy of their many friends.

Mrs. Henry Smith, living north of Concord, died Thursday, Sept. 29, after an illness of several weeks. The remains were laid to rest in Concord cemetery Saturday afternoon. The funeral was held at the M. E. church, Rev. P. Adams in charge.

Mrs. Smith leaves several grown children and other relatives and friends. She was a woman of great worth to her family and neighborhood. She was about 66 years of age. Mr. Smith is a patient at a hospital in Jacksonville.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ham, of Hopewell, was buried at Concord Sunday.

We extend our sympathy to Lewis Callaway and family upon the death of Mr. Callaway's aged mother.

George Maul, of Jacksonville, visited his parents at this place Sunday. Mrs. Maul, of Jacksonville, and family, of Jacksonville, spent Sunday at his father's, Perry Henderson's. Among other visitors in this neighborhood from town were Mrs. Dr. Ogil and Mrs. David Kennedy.

Ralph Russell spent Sunday with his lady friend in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Jack Henderson and Miss Lottie Henderson, who have been in St. Louis for some time, returned home Saturday and report a fine time.

Rev. Mr. Murray, the new M. E. minister at this place, preached his first sermon to a fair-sized audience Sunday and left a favorable impression. He seems to be an earnest worker and we wish him success.

R. B. Henderson spent Sunday at Concord.

David Henderson cut his foot with a corn knife a few days ago, but at present the wound made has almost healed. When will children learn to leave such sharp instruments alone?

"Found, as if the owner had caught them on the wire and left them in hurried flight," a pair of nearly new overalls. The owner can have same by calling on Ellis Thompson.

The road commissioners of this district wish to state that the parties who took the frame work and other material left near the bridge over Big Indian creek south of this place are known and unless they return this property they will be prosecuted.

The school directors laid a new walk from Maul's corner to the school house Sunday. Many thanks are due George Glover, from town, who is breaking horses in this neighborhood recently, but returned to town, leaving in his stead Clarence P. Glover and John W. Mosely.

Two gentlemen, from town, who were riding and so far have had no accident.

At the regular meeting of the I. O. O. F., Arcadia 32, Saturday night the following officers were installed: Levitt Deatherage, N. G.; Nathan Neill, V. G.; J. F. Neill, secretary, and F. B. Henderson, treasurer.

Peter Henderson on going out into his yard recently saw two men running by his house waving his arms frantically and calling for help. A closer observation showed him that it was B. Hickman, of this place, whom he had seen cutting weeds near Ellis Thompson's place but a few minutes before. This is the story he told: "I was working away quietly, with no thought of danger, when I noticed a movement in the weeds some seventy yards ahead of me. This seemed to be coming toward me and I, somewhat surprised and frightened, began to move away. I had gone some fifty yards when two large, powerful men, dressed in dark clothes, came out of the weeds and toward me on a run. Knowing my house was near, I too, ran and as you see I've got here, save me if you can." I got, somewhat frightened, too, got a gun and started in pursuit. They only got one glimpse of the animals as they disappeared in the hedge. There was some talk of organizing a hunting party, but this was abandoned, it being evident that it would take a week's help and weed cutting before they could hope to find the bears, and no one thought they could spare that time. Thus the bears are left to roam in peace in the wilds north of Arcadia.

A VERY REMARKABLE REMEDY.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." For sale by all leading druggists.

WAVERLY.

Mason Woods has resigned his position with Christopher & Sons and has gone to St. Louis to attend the medical department of Washington university.

OBITUARY.

Ann Eliza Sims was born in Morgan county, Illinois, Dec. 27, 1833, and entered into rest at her residence, 828 Ashland avenue, Friday morning, Sept. 30, 1904, at 7 o'clock, after an illness of some length.

Mrs. Sims had been an angel of mercy to many homes in this city, and having spent a long life in good deeds has gone to her just reward.

She was married to Rev. James A. Gunn Aug. 22, 1858. To this union were born five children, three of whom, with the husband, preceded her in death. The surviving are A. M. Gunn, of Chicago, and Miss Eva, of this city.

Funeral services over the remains were held at Centenary M. E. church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in charge of Rev. W. H. Wilder, assisted by Rev. H. H. O'Neal, Rev. A. E. Caldwell and Rev. W. H. Musgrave. The services were very impressive in character and were heard by a large gathering of those who had known and loved her in life. According to the request of the deceased, T. H. Rapp, Miss Allen Aron, Miss Alice Goodrick and Dr. M. H. Goodrick sang a number of beautiful hymns appropriate to the occasion.

At the conclusion of the services at the church the remains were borne to Jacksonville cemetery, where they were laid to rest after brief services at the grave, also in charge of Rev. W. H. Wilder. The bearers were Rev. C. P. Baker, Rev. Nathan English, Rev. W. H. Wilder, Rev. H. H. O'Neal, Rev. A. E. Caldwell and Samuel Black. There was a great profusion of floral tokens.

Secure your seats at the box office—Only one company playing "The Runaways" in America

The advance sale of seats for the approaching engagement of "The Runaways" at the Grand on Thursday indicates one of the largest audiences of the season. Not in years has amusements attraction come so highly spoken of, and in view of the fact that this will be the original production in all its entirety, just as it was presented for more than six months at the New York Casino, there is every reason to believe that the occasion will be a memorable one in local theatricals. "The Runaways" is a musical extravaganza built on an unusually elaborate scene, over $75,000 having been expended on it before its initial presentation. The play is in two acts, the first showing the race track and club house and the second transpires on the Island of Table d'Hote in the Pacific ocean. In the cast supporting the popular star, Mr. Arthur Dunn, will be Charles Cox, Clarence Harvey, W. E. Mechem, Thos. Whitbread, S. P. Falem, Misses Erminie Earle, Blanche Wayne, Sallie Randall, the Althea sisters, the famous Casino show girls and the English pony ballet. Prices 25c-50c-75c-1.00-1.50. Seats still selling.

ARTISTIC CALENDAR.

Prof. W. B. Olds, musical director of the Illinois Conservatory of Music, has published a very handsome art calendar that is from the press of George Seton Thompson, of Chicago. It is entitled, "Songs of the Months," and is a most artistic piece of work. There is a song for each month; the music by Professor Olds and words by Mr. B. E. Bush. The cover design and the sketches for each of the months is the work of Prof. Walter Marshall Clute, of the Chicago Art school, and both the idea conceived and its representation on the printed page shows a keen sense of appropriateness that makes the calendar a perfect gem of artistic beauty.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Fore-runner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowing-up of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

The Vital Question

Most Names by Which Diseases Are Known Are Merely Technical Terms to Distinguish Slight Differences.

Chronic maladies are due to two conditions: First, to poor blood and disordered circulation; second, to a lack of nervous force and unequal distribution of it. In other words, we may look to the blood and nerves for most of the lingering ills that weaken, plague or wreck human kind. This explains why Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Food cures so many diseases that bear distinctive names. It puts the blood and nerves right, and through them the whole system comes right. This concentrated Food is a blood builder, which so improves the vitality that it thoroughly nourishes every part of the body. It is also a powerful vitality, that gives an abundant store of energy to the nerve centers, which is distributed to every part, according to its needs. Price 50 cents, five boxes, enough to give a fair trial, $2.00. Weigh yourself before taking it. Book free.

RESTORED

(Original.)

"Have you no counsel?" asked the judge of a prisoner about to be tried for obtaining money fraudulently. He was an elderly man, through whose shabby clothes one might see evidence of respectability.

"I have not, your honor."

The judge turned to a young lawyer present, one who had recently been admitted to practice, and said:

"You may take this case."

The prisoner and his counsel withdrew, and when they were alone the latter asked his client for information.

"The trouble started twenty years ago," said the accused man. "My wife was greatly troubled that we had no child and constantly longed for one, though it seemed to me that my income was too small for two, to say nothing of three. However, circumstances brought us a boy, two years old and pretty as a picture, who had been born of other parents. His father and mother, acquaintances of ours, died within a few days of each other of pneumonia and left him absolutely unrequited. We took him to our home and gave him all the attention he required, intending to bring him up as our adopted son. He was a bright little fellow and very affectionate. Of course at that age he soon forgot his father and mother, and since we took their places he supposed he was our own child. I was very fond of him, and my wife, who idolized him, spent a great deal of money dressing him and buying pretty things for him. We were taken sick with scarlet fever, and he watched over him night and day till he recovered. This, of course, meant a large doctor's bill, which neither I nor my wife would have objected to had we the means to meet it, and even as it was we were rejoiced because our pet suffered nothing in consequence of an ailment which leaves so many children blighted."

"One day when the child was four years old he disappeared. Some children with whom he was playing at the time on the sidewalk said that a man came along who took him by the hand and led him away, promising him that he would buy him some candy. We believed that he had been kidnapped for ransom, but as no ransom was ever demanded we were puzzled. My wife was frantic about her loss, and I confess I was stunned. We hired private detectives to trace him, but they failed to find him."

"After giving up hope, I counted up my indebtedness, all of which had been incurred for our dear boy, and found it more than $2,000. I wished to conceal the matter from my wife, whose love for the child and her extravagance on his account had partially caused it. I carried the load secretly for years, robbing Peter to pay Paul, hoping that my affairs would take a favorable turn and I might pay it off. But as I grew older my services became less valuable, and the debt became greater on account of the exorbitant rate of interest I was forced to pay."

"It occurred to me that if I could get it into the hands of one man I could handle it more easily. So I persuaded a man to buy up the claims. But I found myself only in a worse condition than before. The fellow induced me to sign a paper, the contents of which I did not read carefully. It contained misrepresentations. Thinking he could bleed me through relatives (who would not turn a hand to save me), he made a criminal charge."

The young lawyer listened to this recital attentively and, when it was finished, without asking for any further details, returned to the court room and asked for a continuance of the case till a subsequent date. This was granted, the prisoner was remanded and the attorney went away.

The next day the lawyer drove up in a carriage to the prison and presented a paper directing the discharge of his client. The old man, wondering, stepped out in the light of day, and his counsel bade him enter the carriage, saying that he would drive him home.

The newly discharged prisoner obeyed, momentarily expecting an explanation. None came. Then they drove up to a shabby cottage and were met by an old lady who, when the discharged man muttered the word "free," fell into his arms and wept. When they were in the house the lawyer took the hand of each in his and said: "I am your father and your mother."

The Trapper's Revenge

(Original.)

A century ago, when that large strip of territory then known as Louisiana was purchased from France, the region was very wild. Settlers were in danger of Indians (when the Indians were inclined to be hostile), but panthers, wolves and other wild animals were there, and they were always hostile.

Somewhere about 1820 a Scotchman named MacDowell, with his wife and daughter, settled in Illinois on the edge of what was then called the Grand prairie. Helen, the daughter, grew to be a very pretty lassie, and, as marriageable women were then scarce in that country, she had a number of suitors. Among them was a young trapper, MacDowell, whose father MacDowell had known in Scotland. The trapper was making money, and MacDowell, being a thrifty man, with an eye to the value of property, made a match between him and his daughter.

Young MacDowell was a silent, unobtrusive fellow, who spent most of his time in the wilderness setting his traps, so that Helen MacDowell had never seen much of him.

Then came on the Black Hawk Indian war, and after it was all over a company of militia marching home passed through the place where the MacDowells lived. A lieutenant, Leonard Bright, saw Helen MacDowell and fell desperately in love with her. The soldiers passed on, but in less than a month Bright was back, ostensibly looking for an opportunity to enter government land, but really to meet the girl who had charmed him.

MacDowell saw very soon how things were going, but said nothing. Perhaps if he were not out all day setting his traps it might not have happened, but Bright had ample opportunity and made the most of it. One afternoon MacDowell, while at work in the woods, saw Bright and Helen riding on horseback along a road leading eastward. The direction, toward the more thickly settled country, put it into the trapper's head that something was wrong, though this was nothing more than a mere suspicion. It was near evening, and MacDowell went home. When supper time came and Helen had not returned to her father's house, MacDowell knew that she had gone away for good with her new lover.

Arming himself, the trapper mounted and rode after the fugitives, intending that if Bright wanted the girl he should fight for her. MacDowell suspected that the couple would point for Cincinnati, so he kept that road. It was a starlight night, and the air was crisp. Presently he heard before him a faint sound. He reined in his horse and listened. It was the barking of a pack of wolves.

Starting on, he rode rapidly, the barking of the wolves growing more and more distinct. Then there was a shot, distant, like the voices of the wolves. Presently the heavens in the direction from which the sounds came were lighted with a red glare. MacDowell felt sure that some person or persons were being attacked by wolves and hurried on to be of assistance. As he proceeded he heard several more shots at intervals and judged that but one person was firing as fast as he could get an opportunity to load.

The barking and the shots were now so near that MacDowell could plainly realize the fierceness of the fight. But what sent him forward with all the vigor his horse was possessed of was a woman's shriek.

In a few minutes the trapper dashed up to a couple endeavoring to shelter themselves behind a fire from a pack of hungry wolves. One glance told him that they were Leonard Bright and Helen MacDowell. He took but one glance for there was no time for more. The pack was a large one. Bright, it was plain, had expended his ammunition, for he had thrown his pistol away, and MacDowell, though he had two pistols, had but a limited amount of powder and ball. It was a question of whether all should live or all should die. Dismissing MacDowell, he permitted his terrified horse to scamper away, and with a pistol in each hand advanced to the others, firing a shot from each pistol as he advanced. There were no revolvers, so the trapper used his pistols. The men, who were bent upon saving their lives, all were shot before it was over. The trapper, for the time being, no longer thought of love or jealousy or revenge; all were bent upon saving their lives. The men, who were bent upon saving their lives, all were shot before it was over. ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Republicans of 8th District Gather in Armory Hall—Several Splendid Addresses.

The Republicans of precinct No. 8 held an enthusiastic and largely attended meeting in Armory hall last evening and heard a number of speeches full of enthusiasm for and expressive of confidence in the ticket, county, state and national. The closest attention was given the speakers, and their arguments were frequently applauded.

George L. Merrill presided and introduced Judge M. T. Layman as the first speaker. Mr. Layman took up the tariff issue and contrasted the conditions which existed under the Wilson free trade tariff during the last Democratic administration with those which we enjoyed during the succeeding Republican administration. He cited statistics to show the remarkable difference in conditions during these periods, to show why times were good under Republican and depressed under Democratic administrations. He also contrasted the things for which the two parties stand and their cardinal principles.

Mr. L. O. Vaughn was then introduced and although he had not expected to speak, he touched upon a few things that the preceding speaker had not mentioned, particularly the trusts. He spoke of the active campaign being waged by the Democrats in New York, and stated that the Democratic leaders in that state are appealing to the money interests on the grounds that Roosevelt is dangerous to their interests, as he is a trust-fighter. He also spoke of the county ticket and urged that they be given the hearty support of the whole party.

John A. Rawlings was then introduced and made a few remarks, full of loyalty to the party and of sound Republican doctrine.

Mr. Merrill then took up the county ticket in detail and put forth one after another the excellent qualifications of each for the office for which he has been nominated.

Cupid Mosely then reviewed the glorious record of the party and stated that in the roll of the great in the future will appear the names of Washington, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Roosevelt. He said that the watchword of the Republican party should be: "Be not weary of well doing."

Mr. Merrill announced that on Thursday evening W. H. Stead will speak in Armory hall.

MENDELSSOHN CLUB.

The first rehearsal of the Mendelssohn club was held at the Woman's college Tuesday evening and the attendance was large. The club is one of the strong musical organizations of the city and under the skillful direction of Professor Stead has been a great success. All indications point to another prosperous year. Many new voices joined the chorus last evening.

PLEASANT SURPRISE.

A very pleasant surprise party was given at the home of W. J. Guthrie on Myrtle street in honor of the 17th birthday of Miss Jessie Guthrie. A very enjoyable time was spent in game and other amusements, after which refreshments were served. Those present were Misses Zora Pierson, Lena Hogans, Sue Hogans, Thillie Page, Gertrude Wade, Serena Herman, Jessie Guthrie, and Messrs. Oscar Williams, Howard Underwood, Harvey Wilburn, Robt. Pierson, Charles Daly, Charles Herman, Henry Wilburn, Condy McPike, Ernest Branom, Fred Herman, Wade Williams, Roy Moxley, Mosco Sutton, Howard Finlay and W. J. Guthrie.

Mrs. Nellie Davis Mathews and two children and Miss Mayme Davis, of Oakland, Cal., and Mrs. Grace Davis Redmon, of Santa Cruz, Cal., visited friends in the city Tuesday. They have been attending the fair and took advantage of the opportunity to visit in this vicinity.

AT THE GRAND

"Ingomar" Is Given a Splendid Interpretation Tuesday Evening.

"Ingomar," a beautiful classic drama, filled with noble sentiments and whose lines were penned by a master hand, was given a fine presentation at the Grand Tuesday evening.

John A. Preston was in the title role and a more splendid exhibition of polished acting and dramatic talent has seldom been seen on the local stage. His manner, his enunciation and his stage presence fitted the part as though it were created for him, and of his interpretation the most severe critic could but speak words of praise.

Miss Mary Atheling as "Parthenia" shared the honors with the star and her work was indeed of the highest character, and she most gracefully and artistically met all the exacting demands of the part.

The supporting cast was in keeping with the excellence of the production and the stage scenery and settings were adequate.

The presentation of "Ingomar" will be remembered by patrons of the Grand as one of the best offerings of the season and the work of Mr. Preston and Miss Atheling will be recalled with the greatest pleasure and satisfaction. The audience, while far smaller than the merit of the piece demanded, was deeply appreciative and there were certain calls at the end of each act.

The plot of "Ingomar" is built along classical lines and as it is unfolded under the dramatic skill of the finished artist it has a charm that is extremely fascinating. The scene is laid in Gaul and the time is a century after the foundation of the Mescalita by the Phoenicians.

Thursday night, "The Runaways."

H. H. Massey worked "Florence," a promising colt owned by George Woods, of Pisgah, a fast half mile Tuesday at the fair grounds track. The colt is a 2-year-old and stepped the half in 1:14.

ART ASSOCIATION

First Meeting of the Season—Reminiscences of Summer Travel—An Enthusiastic Gathering.

This time-honored society, now in its thirtieth, shows no signs of age, but begins the new year with unabated vigor and earnestness of purpose. The opening meeting, held last evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gates Strawn and Miss Trabue, was largely attended and full of interest.

Mrs. T. J. Pitzer, the president, had a few pleasant words of greeting and Miss Lucy Sturtevant read the minutes of the previous meeting. As is customary each year, the first meeting is devoted to reminiscences of summer travel. Miss Mary Rhoads spoke of a few experiences of her sojourn in California, from which she brought delightful recollections of sunshine and flowers; of mountain peaks and secluded valleys; of grand old forests and swift-rushing streams. She was especially enthusiastic over the grand canyons of Arizona, and the ancient abodes of the cliff dwellers.

Dr. Morey had found an ideal summer resort, whose exact locality he would not reveal—a place not yet spoiled by the vacation tourist. A New England town in the northwest, where well-trimmed lawns, neatly painted houses, the absence of everything repulsive, show the cleverness and tact of the women who manage its decorative affairs. Near by, a birch tree growing out of an old spruce stump is typical of this new civilization developed from the original settlement. The topography is well worth study, for here are the wonderful remains and work of the ice age—huge rocks, rivaling in architectural design and appearance, the cathedrals of the old world, and filling the beholder with emotions of awful sublimity. From this lofty theme the good doctor, as becometh a disciple of Isaac Walton, descended to the delights of trout fishing and waxed eloquent in the praise of a certain imported Norwegian fly, which left the home grown product nowhere.

He also told of his impersonation of a French skeptic, and how a shrewd American bishop, not to be caught with foreign lies, found him out from certain betraying theologians. Miss Neville, of the Woman's college, gave some charming word pictures of her rambles in England, Scotland and on the continent. Her descriptions of English landscapes were exceedingly vivid of the stretches of country lying tender and sweet and quiet in the sunlight, with a wonderful greenness, not parched, but living and ever fresh and variegated with poppies, foxgloves and other flowers. Her coaching tour through the lake district, where every mile is rich in natural beauty and in literary and historic associations, was spiritedly depicted, and one saw with her the perfect roads, the hedges of holly and hawthorne, pink and green. Wordsworth, Southey, Carlyle, Ruskin, Coleridge and the rest—what a host of geniuses hover about that classic region. Then to the land of Burns, to Dumfries and to Ayr; to the poet's cottage, cared for by a descendant of Robbie; to Edinburgh, a finished and admirable city; to Holyrood and Melrose and Dryburgh. The story of her visit to Chester was full of spirited and effective bits of description, while her personal character sketches were capital drawings. Miss Neville has the gift not only of seeing into the heart of nature, but also of bringing others into a perception and appreciation of the scenes she portrays.

A piano solo by Miss Belton and a vocal number by Miss Sarjane Mathews added much to the entertainment of the evening.

OPERA HOUSE DEAL.

A rumor has been afloat for some time to the effect that the Grand opera house was about to change hands again, and that John Cherry & Son were the purchasers. Mr. Cherry, Sr., when asked about the matter recently, said that he had purchased the building, the price paid being $125,000. He said that he would make extensive improvements in the building, including a passenger elevator in the southwest corner, where the shoe shining parlors are now. The fourth floor is to be divided into small rooms, and the whole of the available space occupied.

It is said that a large amount of real estate figured in the deal, which was reported closed last evening. The building, when improved, will be fitted up particularly for office purposes.

The transaction was made through S. M. Land, of Ft. Scott, Kans.

The gathering of the family has been an unusually pleasant one, as it is the first in twelve years.

Somebody's Going to Get This Heater

And it is not going to cost them a cent.

Here's the reason: We want to demonstrate that this heater, known as the Buck's Hot Blast, is absolutely the best and most satisfactory made: so on Oct. 10th and 11th, at about 9 o'clock, we will give a demonstration in front of our store, showing just how and why a ton and a quarter of the cheapest kind of soft coal used in this heater will produce the same amount of heat as a ton of hard coal will in a base burner.

Every married person visiting our store up to the time of the demonstration will be given a ticket entitling them to one chance to win this wonderful heater, which is valued at $25. Drawing takes place directly after the demonstration, and holder of winning ticket must be present. The heater is now on exhibition in our window.
